

It is my opinion, that the morse code requirement for amateur radio testing, is out of date, unnecessary and should be removed.

However, it is also my opinion that the band plan which requires code in certain areas of the bands, remain in place. Morse Code IS a mode of communications used by the Amateur Radio Service, like any other mode of communications, it needs its' place in the spectrum.

In addition, it too is my opinion that this matter be resolved as quickly as possible. It has been some time since morse code was required by our military.

Remove mandatory Morse Code testing for ANY Amateur Radio application.
